APRIL 2005 NEWSLETTER

Hello and welcome to the second edition for 2005 of the UFOR (NSW) Newsletter. Well. I am much better since my previous newsletter – I have gotten over that horrid ‘bug’ (took 3 weeks!) and have moved house, which must be one of the most stressful things a person can do in one’s lifetime! Actually, it was not the move but the looking around for somewhere to live, which was the greatest pain and an experience I don’t want to repeat too often! Anyhow, I am still sleeping with approx 15 cartons in my bedroom and still living out of suitcases, so it is not all over!! That’s the trouble about being a hoarder! It catches up with you!

Our third meeting for the year went off well with the Raelians presenting their views and showing a DVD. It has been decided by the Committee not to have a guest speaker every general meeting. The group will concentrate on general meetings being more for audience participation, discussing issues and sharing information. We will still endeavour to bring you a guest speaker every now and then, if we hear about a person of note coming to Sydney for instance. As you must appreciate, it is hard to provide new and fresh speakers each month. Hopefully this new way of conducting general meetings will satisfy the needs of those people who attend the meetings.

2005 UFO (NSW) MEETINGS

SIGHTINGS

REPORTS FROM UFOR NSW WEBSITE

Dubbo, NSW Sighting

Jason, on 16 February 2005 at 11.34 AM Observed "I saw what I initially thought was a shooting star, but this was slower and went for longer. As the object disappeared, I noticed that there were actually two fairly bright orange lights at what appeared to be the rear of the vehicle. From the angle I worked out that it must have been well over 60,000 feet in altitude. I thought of afterburners but, no, different. The "tail" remained a constant glow of orange and was extremely uniform in its appearance. I don't know what I saw but I was full of adrenalin for some time after. I made detailed notes, which will allow working out of height and maybe approximate speed."

Homebush Bay Sighting, NSW

Mr M, from Newington, NSW, 8 2005 at 2 AM observed "I was sitting down by the lake near the Newington Estate. I was watching the water and something in the sky caught my attention. It immediately looked different to any helicopter or plane I'd seen flying over the area. The object continued to slowly move across the sky towards the left, over Olympic Park. It looked like it travelled over the Superdome and the Olympic Stadium then went over the horizon. It was mostly this shiny red colour, but had a pulsing white light on the top. It was kind of like a lighthouse in the sky. The white light seemed to circle around."

Beerwah, QLD sighting

"I was at the Beerwah Football Grounds (on the Sunshine Coast in Queensland) on Tuesday 1st of March 2005 and it was early evening (it had just gone from Dusk to Night. I was having a beer and chatting with a friend (his back was towards a star that seemed to be flickering. While I chatted with him, I was distracted by the object which seemed to be getting bigger (I couldn't decide if it was a plane or not). I kept watching and said nothing about the object to my friend. It seemed to be moving slowly toward my direction and appeared to be at least 15 miles away, then it seemed to grow in size rather quickly. I could see the outline of 3 large paneled windows in a mildly triangular interlocking shape (there was no aircraft warning lights on the vehicle). The light was coming through those windows. I thought 'wow' and quickly pointed it to my friend. It simply disappeared an instant before he could see it for himself. I estimate it was about 12-15 Kilometres away, perhaps over BeerBurrum or Elimbah at the furthest away and looked fairly huge (large) - bigger than a jumbo in width. I estimated (imagined) the dimensions as being slightly larger than the windows I could see. I suggest that what I was seeing was approx. 200 feet wide and approximately 50 foot high at it widest depth. It appeared to be in the classic Jupiter 2 style although I may have been seeing the front on view for some type of advanced military aircraft like a stealth bomber. I say this, as the airforce has admitted to doing tests in the area, after inadvertently creating a major sonic boom event in the area which rattled windows over a 2.5000(square) kilometre area on the Queensland Sunshine Coast (it was an eerie event and created quite a disturbance). This purportedly happened miles out at sea and was the result of a military jet flying at too low altitude. Anyway I just thought if anyone else has seen the same thing and/or knows more they could perhaps let me know."

Coffs Harbour, NSW sighting (refer to UFORQ report of 10 Mar 05 below)

Mr M, from Coffs Harbour, on 17 March 2005 at 10.30 PM, observed "I was observing the great nebular M 42, which was high in the northern sky, approx 70 to 80 degrees above the horizon, when across the field of view I saw, what I initially thought, was a shooting star. I was able to track the light with some difficulty as it was travelling very quickly. I was surprised by the fact that I was able to track the light until it passed below the horizon approx NNE. The episode could no have lasted 15 seconds and I was very surprised that it lasted that long. My previous experiences of shooting stars are of a more fleeting nature, lasting less than 2-3 seconds. I was also aware that there was little if any tail on the light. For a reference to speed, I subsequently observed a commercial aeroplane which I presume was travelling somewhere in the region of altitude 25-35000 ft and the speed at which I needed to track my scope was less than 15-20% of the speed of the observed light."

Semaphore Beach, Adelaide, SA sighting

Jasmine from Semaphore South, SA on 3 April 2005 at 7:00 PM observed "I live on the coast (in front of the beach) in Adelaide with my Mum, and decided to go down to the beach in the early evening by myself. Once down the beach I was admiring the lights on the ships on the horizon when these double set of lights in the sky caught my eye. There was a small plane nearby that was travelling at normal speed, but this pair of bright lights was stationary in the same spot! It looked almost like a bright double-jointed star because it was so still in the sky, but then after approx.15 mins it turned in a 45-degree turn, and went the other direction. Of course, being a little scared (because I was the only one, apart from another man down the beach, watching), I started off home. I could still see it in the sky as I walked back, but I took my eyes off it for a second to see where I was going, looked back up into the sky and it disappeared. When I got back home, mum straight asked me what that was in the sky as well. Because we have huge wide windows in the front of our house she could see what I saw, but not as close up. She also noticed how it sharply turned around in an angle and left. Mum and I agree that it appeared to be hovering over the horizon near the ships that were anchored for the night there.

Effects - "Mum is just like me, pretty confused about the whole thing. We have both been very sceptical when it came to UFO sightings and what we just saw was definitely confusing".

Other Experiences - "Yes. I don't really feel comfortable talking about this because I am like I said a sceptic, although I had an experience that I find hard to believe myself, even after I saw it with my own eyes. Once when I was young, about 6 or 7, I think I may have seen a being. It was late one night and I was in my mum's bed because I was scared for some reason. I had the covers over my head, but had the strangest feeling something was watching me on the side of the bed near the closet. When I slowly pulled the blanket off I nearly died of shock; I saw this small being, probably only a metre tall. Its head though, wasn't shaped like a typical 'grey' - it was like a football on its side. It was, however, wrinkly in skin, big eyes and just very scary looking to a child. I straightaway shoved the blankets back over my head, then when I felt it safe enough to pull them off again to look, .it was gone. I've only told a few close friends about this and that's all. I knew I wasn't asleep at the time dreaming it, but I really wish I was. It didn't hurt anything, or me but it scared me, and to this day I have felt weird about anything UFO orientated, which is why tonight freaked me out quite a bit. I just want answers like everyone else does, and I hope this information will help you to find them."

This email report is from UFOR NSW member Dudley Robb.

"Hello All,

After our monthly UFOR (NSW) meeting on Saturday afternoon (2nd April) members Jane Small and her husband Rob returned to their Ryde home for a barbecue in their backyard with friends. After their eating was done an informal skywatch and chat continued until well past midnight. At about midnight they were all treated to a sight that took them by surprise and Jane was still excited about it after telling me the details of the incident today (Monday afternoon). Main points follow:

- Time of sighting: About midnight.
- Location: The Sydney suburb of West Ryde.
- Duration of sighting: A few seconds.
- General description of event: A large 'shape' that was illuminated evenly, with edges that seemed to change shape, passed quickly directly over their house at an estimated (by Rob) maximum altitude of 1500 feet. It was completely silent. All the witnesses agree that it was like nothing they had ever seen before. It was an exciting ending to their barbecue and earlier UFOR meeting! Since there were no clouds above them it ruled out a thought I had that it could have been the rotating searchlight beam from Centrepont reflecting off clouds.

The above incident shows how any average outdoor barbecue can become a profitable skywatch without any special extra effort!

Dudley

Goonellabah, NSW, sighting

Leanne, Goonellabah, NSW, on 4 April 2005 at 10:50 PM observed "a circle of lights, not coloured, circling around clock wise then anti clock wise in and around light cloud cover. There was no sound. We had some rain earlier, so I went outside to check on my cat and noticed these lights. I am not sure how many, but at a guess, 20 plus. As the cloud cleared, the lights were not visible unless going into or coming out of cloud coverage. They came over a little lower a couple of times and then disappeared back into the clouds. I checked again around 11:30 pm and they had gone away a little but still visible. Unfortunately, my other family members had gone to bed - I was the only one to see it."

Glenmore Park (Penrith) NSW sighting

Kurt, from Glenmore park, NSW, on April 2005 at 3:30 AM observed "well I woke up in a cold sweat had a nightmare but can't remember what about. I stayed in bed trying to get to sleep for about 15 min but could not. So I figured I better read myself to sleep, but no luck there either, so I went out the front of my house to have a smoke and watch the stars (I don't know why as I never usually go outside for cigarettes as I can smoke inside). I sat on the bench in the front yard and sparked up. I was just looking at the stars - they were unusually bright then I saw it! I thought it was just a bright star at first but then it moved like lightning then stopped, then moved to the right and then up then back down on the left side so it made a sort of triangle. It did that 2 times then went in a straight line to the left then it went down then it was just sitting like a star, so I watched it for a while then it was gone"

West Beach Road, Richmond, SA sighting

Les, from Windsor Gardens, SA, in 1961 at 0100 AM, observed for 5-10 mins "Yes it's a long time ago, never mind ...Was driving a taxi and near end of shift, when I met my brother in town. Told him wait for me out front of taxi owner's house as I would be finished once I dropped off on-board fare (phew!).

Okay, so when I reached my boss' house, filled in book, left takings, keys etc, went to brother's car for ride home, only to find him staring sky-ward. It scared me for a second, as he didn't budge, just said 'get in, sit down and see what I see. There, just slightly above the roof tops!' It took me a little while to adjust, but when I did, told brother probably Sputnik (even though never before seen Sputnik in my life!). Object was maybe 4 times larger than Venus only not real bright. My brother and I watched the light for several minutes with me searching for a logical explanation, which I thought would eventually come, but actually never did. Then the thing would stop, move down, stop, move to the left (or was it right?), and so forth, until eventually (starting slow) shooting away at blinding speed. We stopped on our way home to ring a radio station, who told us others had reported as well, plus said RAAF at Edinburgh had been notified and were investigating. Well I don't believe any of this investigating nonsense and not one word about these sightings in the next morning's newspaper. Well, for what it's worth, that's the story. I resisted relating this sighting because earlier on I received back even more, sometimes bizarre accounts which made you think; too many of these "sightings" were simply a game. I mean no, there were no green men or such, so their account wins hands-down! I've stayed quiet ever since ... till now."

Turondale, Bathurst, NSW sighting

Mrs. M, of Glenorie, NSW, observed "I was at my parent's farm, lying on a blanket with 2 of my children stargazing. We had seen a few 'shooting stars' and satellites. We then saw a red pinpoint moving through space. To me it seemed to be right up in space. It then changed direction, it was moving in random, straight lines. We then saw approx. 5 other red pinpoints come towards the first one from different directions, they stopped moving and then at great speed shot away into space in different directions and we lost sight of them."

Glen Innes, NSW sighting

Ms. S, from Glen Innes, NSW on 13 April 2005" at midday observed "I was filming outside and zoomed in on a distant cloud. As I was turning the camera an object fell out of the sky. I was able to capture its descent in stills and it turned out to be two objects. I did not hear or see anything when I was out there I found it when looking back on the film. It is only on there literally for 1 second, so it was moving fast."

Sandy Hollow (Muswellbrook), NSW sighting

Jason, from Muswellbrook, NSW in June 1997 at 9.30 PM observed "the object was making a W patten in the sky. It kept doing it for about 20 mins. When it completed the W it would stop for 5 seconds and then start again. It was in the south west sky. A lot of movement with a W pattern. It was about 10 to 15 klms away"

Hoppers Crossing, VIC, sighting

Andrew, from Hoppers Crossing, VIC on 24 April 2005 at 11:40 PM observed "well we where saying good bye to our friends and we noticed that there were these lights going across the sky. At first we thought it was a satellite but by then we saw another light going across the sky with it and then another. It looked like it was far away but it wasn't like it was in the atmosphere. I think we have seen these star like lights before.. We thought we were imagining things but I am not sure if it was a UFO or a plane really high up so don't want to get to any conclusions"

Kingsford, Sydney, NSW sighting

Guy, from Kingsford, Sydney, NSW, on 22 2005 at 5.03 AM, observed for 45mins "Myself and my mate had been in my garage from approx 4.45am talking when I walked out to my backyard at 5.03 (noted the time when I saw it stop) and happened to look up and to the South at that time.. I called my mate over and said "check out this satellite". We watched it for a maybe five seconds before we both saw it change its direction and go in a sort of zig zag motion. By this time we had the feeling that it wasn't in fact a satellite. We watched it moving for maybe 45 sec before it stopped dead in the sky 2cm (if you hold your hands out) under what I thought was a star. When it stopped I raced inside to find my camera but couldn't find it. I came back out where Brett was still watching it but it hadn't moved since so again I went to find my camera and found it in my room. This time, when I came out I realised the battery was were dead, so again I raced back in, changed them with batteries in the remote controls but no luck, so I came back out so I wouldn't miss anything while rubbing the batteries in my hand (I had to do this several times) and finally got the camera to turn on. I then took two photos of the object while it was motionless before I had to delete some of the old photos in the memory. I didn't see the object move from that spot after it stopped there.

The next object we saw came also from the south but this time almost overhead. Brett was the first to see it and turned my attention to it. It seemed to be the same size as the first, in fact I wouldn't have been able to tell them apart if they were together. I only saw this object for maybe fifteen sec as I was fiddling with the batteries trying to get a picture, but Brett watched it while I had my head down. I can't say much on that one because I only saw it briefly, although I can say from what I saw I don't think it stayed on a steady heading. When it stopped I heard him say it's doing " donuts" but that I never saw. I think I tried to take a picture of this one, but I didn't see where exactly it stopped. On top of that, I couldn't see through the viewfinder so I just pointed and clicked hoping I would catch something...The next thing I saw was the shortest sighting but by far the most incredible. By this time it was 5.19am when I was looking to the north - north east, when coming from the north to the south was an incredibly fast object. I only saw it for about a second but I guarantee you I will never forget it. It was flying low, at what altitude I couldn't be sure, but to give you an idea of size I liken it to holding a five, ten or twenty cent piece out in front of you, somewhere in between those sizes. Although that may sound small I have a feeling it was in fact quit large. It was very bright, like looking into a street light or something brighter but still somehow different. The light surrounding the entire object was not just coming from a single source but from all over so I would say it was self-illuminated. The colour of the light was a very bright white and I didn't see any other colour on it at all. It also made absolutely no sound, not a thing, which scared me a bit. The shape of the object from what I saw looked just like ball. If it wasn't completely circular, it may have been slightly elliptical, but I am almost positive it was completely round. Again, I have to guess at the speed of this thing as when my eyes locked on to it for that moment when it flew by, it jerked my head and my whole body around and made me give out an involuntary gasp out aloud, just from the shock of actually seeing it. I believe I may have even grabbed onto my mate's shoulder. At this point I had to sit down because my entire body was shaking from the adrenalin pumping through it. I remember saying to Brett "do you realise what we've seen this morning??" over and over! I almost couldn't believe it! It has definitely left a permanent mark on me, especially the fact it took only a second to cover the sky and without even a whisper of a sound still brings on the adrenalin when I think about it.

The last thing we saw was witnessed first by Brett. It was 5.32am and I was facing south where the first two came from, with my eyes glued to sky when Brett turned me around and pointed up into the north side of the sky and told me to watch. There, after maybe two seconds, I saw a bright flash that I would say was probably four times brighter than a bright star, then nothing, then another flash, then nothing, etc. At this time I thought " get a picture, or anything!", I then took a picture, which was the last one before the batteries died for good. I then realised I might be able to use the camera on my phone and took two 12 sec clips with my phone before we watched them disappear. I originally thought I had only watched it for twenty seconds or so but the two clips were twelve sec and to get the phone ready would have taken another fifteen sec or so - probably more like 35-40 sec while looking at my phone and the sky back and forward again. While I was fiddling around, Brett kept watching it and saw it longer than I did. Although from what I saw when it flashed, it was about four times brighter than a star but when it didn't flash I couldn't see anything at all out of the ordinary - no outline of it, no light, nothing like the others. It was definitely moving! It seemed to go in a diagonal line up and right before it came down a bit then again diagonal. The only way we could follow it was when it flashed it was at a different location so we just traced where it was before to then. I got the impression the last time it flashed that it was going further or higher because it seemed to dim, but couldn't be sure because we didn't see it again after that. By this time the sun was starting to rise on our right and the stars were almost all faded into the sky. I also found it quit odd that the last movement we saw was only six minutes before the first plane came overhead at 5.38am. We were then convinced we wouldn't see any more, so for about ten minutes we talked about everything that had just happened before I let him out through my garage door and I then went inside. When inside I sat down and tried to regain myself and then sent an sms message to my dad and my girlfriend, telling them briefly that I had seen something incredible before writing five pages of notes so I didn't forget any details after I fell asleep. Before Brett left I told him to do the same and write down what he saw and write any details at all. He has since told me he did but I have not seen them as yet as I have been having a tough time getting on to him since he lost his phone on sat night. Also I did my best while I was outside to get accurate times and remember details and as far as I am concerned everything I have written here is as accurate and readable as I can put it."

"Effects" = "No, I don't think so. Although the whole thing seems to me to be either meant to be or complete blind luck as me and Brett never meet up at that time and have never just sat and talked in the garage. In fact we were supposed to meet at about midnight but he got delayed. We were also going to go for a drive to Maroubra but I said let's just stay here even though I wanted to go for a drive near the ocean. It just seems very lucky."

"Other_Experiences" = "Never seen a UFO before that but had a couple of strange things happen, one involving a little girls voice on a video in my phone (still have it) when I was alone, and a couple unrelated experiences."

ABDUCTION EXPERIENCES IN UK – REPORT SUBMITTED BY UFOR NSW MEMBER J. This is a direct transcript of his handwritten report.

A RETROSPECTIVE OVERVIEW OF A UFO INCIDENT WITH ABDUCTION FEATURES

By John 12 Nov 04

Report: Previously unlisted in the public domain but contained in official files.

Notes: There was never any debriefing.

This story cannot be confirmed unless other witnesses were to come forward. Unlikely. The account could easily be denied for obvious reasons relating to myself.

On an unspecified date in the UK of the 1970's, I was taken up into a flying saucer (not actually a disc) by riding up an anti-gravity beam. The incident occurred in the evening, late one year between the time of 8.30 pm – 1.30 am when I was returning to the ground via the same means of transport. The site was finally cleared by 2.30 am (an undisclosed location in the North of England).

The only mention in the media was one item in a local newspaper (buried inside the paper) that ran for no more than one-inch space. This report re-countered that there had been a series of power cuts in the region but gave not details other than the faults that were corrected. The report went on to mention there had been a handful of people who had thought they'd seen a UFO in the sky during the cuts.

I was fully conscious whilst riding up the beam, at the end of which I entered the transport through passing inside from a transparent wall. I immediately came face to face with 'The Usher' who said words to the effect "Surprise! Surprise! I bet you didn't think you'd get me!" His manner was one of amusement, not unfriendly and quite exactly correct, precise and courteous. He then led me through the brightly-lit interior to a room.

On the way to the room he explained to me that he was a humanoid life form – a species involved from insects. His face was coal black, the skin smooth and leathery. His eyes seemed human with the iris being surrounded by the whites of his eyeballs. He smelled of sweat. The transport had a neutral clean clinical smell.

He told me he had a reputation and not to cross him because he had been known to get upset. Apparently he didn't like people killing insects as he saw them as kindred evolutionary cousins.

Warning! Not all aliens are nice – don't always have your best interests in mind! They are neither automatons or monsters. They are first and foremost people with a whole range of behaviour patters.

They came here for their own reasons and don't give away a lot of information. You have to deduce what's going on through analysing the interactions between your behaviour and theirs. The ones who mainly come are humanoids. Common similarities in biology design. However, make no mistake whilst they may come from planets in Main Sequence Star System (G2 stars, M class planets) they can exist mostly without aid in a oxygen nitrogen atmosphere in 1q. at 14.5 lbs per sq in pressure.

They have a different evolutionary history and a more than slightly different functional biology. Not all based on the carbon atom! They eat, sleep, and excrete and reproduce themselves like any other species. Intelligence is universal only package. It comes in changes. They have their own ideas on how a society should function and have been socialised according to their environment and kinship networks.

They have a different way of viewing themselves and the universe - every species unique. They don't all like each other but have standards of toleration and protocols for dealing amongst themselves. They don't all have the same technology, but rather are famous for their own innovations. Not all are of the same level of social development. There is more than one species in the local neighbourhood. They don't use radio waves for long range communication from what I can gather – but I digress.

The 'Usher' took me into a large room in which sat a number of species at a long (oblong) table. I was bid to take a seat and asked to participate in a discussion of inquiry. The 'Usher' withdrew from the room and I was left alone to face several groups of aliens of different species (all humanoid)

Note: I wasn't the only person taken onboard that night but I neither came into contact with the other humans or knew where they were held or what happened to them other than afterwards they were all returned in the same manner to the site as myself.

The Inquiry discussion began by announcing they had problems and sought my advice. I was told that humans weren't unintelligent – that all species had a unique problem solving capacity and that they appreciated others perceptions. I replied “Why me – I'm a nobody – a silly clerical Civil Servant without a sophisticated education”. The reply was that this didn't matter – I wasn't an unintelligent person and they wanted my inside (?). So I co-operated and listened to what the definition of the problem or problems were about. I asked questions, tried to analyse the answers and occasionally passed an insightful perceptive remark. I felt a bit on the spot – inadequate – but did my best.

I don't remember precisely what I was asked to review or what answers I gave. Sure to say I was told I would not remember any way. I was there for quite sometime being quizzed. I was supplied with refreshment at one stage. Bread and water, which looked and tasted normal. Then I was thanked and allowed to leave. The 'Usher' returned and guided me out of the room to the exit hatch. He asked me what it was about. I mentioned one thing and then he remarked “of course you won't remember - you might as well chalk it down to experience” was his attitude, not actual words.

When I was positioned, he bade a good luck or a farewell and I rode the beam down to the ground. I was reminded that still being a non-industrial Civil Servant it wasn't in anybody's best interests to say anything as I had signed the Official Secrets Act of 1911-1921, even though it meant little except I might have a job in the future and nobody would believe me anyway. I complied with his request on behalf of the British Govt as I felt a bit privileged. I never mentioned the incident to anyone. It wasn't relevant to my life. End of story.

I have not put in every detail – none of this will be verified any way and I wasn't endorse any publication of these details.

This is an edited version. Sanitised. For UFO Researchers only.

The British Govt attitude is that they don't deny UFOs exist but stop short of endorsing the view that they are flown by ETs. Reports do and can be de-classified. They have a 30 year rule for de-classified material on all subjects. But for sensitive matters some records are never de-classified as evidence of some details of the 1st and 2nd World Wars.

I have no particular fear of Govt retribution for imparting this story. Should it be released to a wider audience, I would be discredited. I'm on record as having had two nervous breakdowns in Australia, brought on by family problems, drinking too much alcohol and having ingested LSD.

On leaving Govt. Service, I was warned that all ex-Govt. employees, no matter how low, are targets if they travel. I was even warned that should I run into trouble living in another country (even a supposedly friendly one like in the alliance or the Commonwealth) I should contact my nearest British Embassy. Although these instructions had nothing to do with my experience with a UFO, it highlighted the British Govt.'s distrust of everything, including friends during the Cold War.

I have since found out through the Internet that the British Govt. was researching 'Electo Gravitics' from 1952 till the mid 1960's. Electro- gravitics is a propulsion system which powers UFO shuttle craft from Earth's orbit, and although involves some general principles is not to be mixed up with the heavier larger systems which power 'Constellation' class cruisers for interstellar flights.

I have no idea how much the Europeans or other allies shared in the science of this research. Save to say that the Net tells me the theory has been known since 1952. However, technically its skill supposed to be a non-starter because there's no accurate definition of what space or gravity actually are true or not. I'm not in a position right now to say. The British Govt. likes to keep control of the information.

It is for this reason, I don't think there will be any quick advances in the field of starship propulsion systems. The world is still fragmented into nation states and not really unified in culture or political terms, although economically it's almost in unison. Some countries persist in human right violations and won't reform their legal systems. Thousands of people are executed every year (even in 1st world progressive societies) and some are tortured.

From what I can gather, crime can have an organic or biological side to it. Not always environment, although ingesting toxic chemicals that make their way into the food chain to contaminate and thereby derange cumulatively whole populations over time.

I can't see any foreseeable interstellar travel in the near future until systems are reformed away from populist retribution and into social and scientific rehabilitation. Deep space needs an integrated social and political system of dome maturity. There has to be some demonstration of space for civilian society to develop. You can't have well trained hair trigger personalities or agencies thinking they can force their opinions on others. They will come off worse and may feel the sting of a fly swat.

I repeat, not all aliens are nice - not all bad. Some may have a sense of humour – many don't. The unthinking warrior element no matter where it flourishes can be dangerous. It's likely that deep space facilities in the solar system will be marked by international co-operation and ultimately interstellar travel will be through a 'united nations' space agency. Since that is the only institution on the face of this planet (earth) that in some way embodies a type of unity and practical altruism (be it ever so currently flawed).

Individuals may be refined and sophisticated wise and competent but organisations have problems. It's all about social organisations that hinders development.

Exploration of the solar system with or without alien presence will continue to be dogged by lack of political and social will as well as funding and technical concerns. Space vehicles may be built in orbit but still use solid fuel boosters and chemical liquids for fuel in main engines – (old basic technology). Even the intermediate top range 'ion engine' tested in the last four years uses a liquid medium, which limits speed and range.

So don't expect any government soon to announce the aliens have arrived or that we will be sending a manned expedition to Pluto in the next decade. They'll tell you the universe is probably logically teeming with life but there are no aliens coming here – it's science fiction and even if they were, it would be like an extra layer of government, all be it unseen.

Aliens don't hide themselves well but they don't advertise their presence either – that defeats the purpose of operating an outpost or way station and stops the influence peddling on this quadrant. How many earthbound racists would get on with aliens who don't smell too good or are anesthetically appealing to humans?

In conclusion: By way of a joke, would you like your daughter to marry one or move into your neighbourhood and reduce the value of your house?

Postscript: During my experience over the space of a few hours in the “consultation” (not what it really was) – on a couple of occasions, somewhat hot and perspiring and feeling uncomfortable, I was given refreshments so I could continue. What I was given was a glass of cool sweet watery liquid, like a fruitjuice and a piece of bread with the fine consistency of cake. I ate and drank this alien brew – the effects that it was an exceptional ‘pick me up’. I felt really good after consuming it and felt very clear headed with a state of well being which would wear off till being I had more. When I had my fill I eventually evened out and had no more difficulties in continuing with the consultation.

T-Bar Creek, between Tin Can Bay and Fraser Island

Friday 18 February 2005 at 4.10am to 4.50am

A man, living on a houseboat, was awakened by his partner to go outside and observe an object in the sky. His partner had previously woken up when she thought she heard something. The man described a spherical object with a dome on top of it approximately 1/2 to 1 mile away. It had a green aura around it and a circle of lights along the middle and hovered silently in the sky. Around the middle of the object there was a ring with 6 circular windows, which had very intense bright light coming out of them. He looked at the object through his binoculars and could see the green aura pulsating. The couple decided to signal it with a strong torch they had and waved it at the object. Within 1 minute 2 other smaller lights about the size of a household bucket emerged from the bottom of the object and shot off towards the east. As they moved they flashed a very weak strobe light, seemingly towards each other, and disappeared around 2 miles from Fraser Island.

Further to the above report, here is a follow up report by Sheryl Gottschall, who interviewed the witness on a radio show:

Further to the Tin Can Bay sighting I posted last Friday (see below) I subsequently asked the witness to call into the Paranormal Panel radio show on Sunday evening (20th Feb) to report his sighting, which he did. He told us that he was again seeing the same object while he was speaking on air except it was much further away. He also informed us that after he reported his sighting to me last Friday he had a strange contact experience, but with what he wasn't sure. While observing that initial object he lost sight of it due to the rising sun but he still had the feeling that the object was there. Then sometime later that morning he was suddenly struck by a feeling that entered his chest and arms. These feelings somehow converted into words and he began speaking as a channel for another source who he believed was connected to the object he had seen earlier. Questions and answers were asked and his partner wrote down as much as she could, but she missed a lot since the communication was very fast. When asked why the two smaller lights were released when the couple signalled the object, the only reply was "did you see that?" The "communicators" said they were from the universe, they did not live on a planet. They are one of many races that exist and they have many enemies. They are primitive just like humanity is, compared to some others out in space. They have not discovered the end of the universe - it is infinite. When asked what they were doing here the answer was that they (the couple) would not understand but they (the communicators) had no interest in humans and were here for their own reasons. The man stated he had the feeling the object from which he thought the communication was coming from was empty, that there was no life on it. His partner wanted to test the source of the communication and held up her fingers behind her back. She then asked how many fingers she was holding up. The answer was that "they" could not tell since they could not see us as people. The communicators told him they were very busy with their activities here on Earth and they were hoping what they were doing would work because they did not want to come back.

Another question was asked if they abducted people. The answer was they did not but knew races who did. They did not die like us nor did they eat like us but lived off the universe. When asked why the man was contacted the answer was because he was there. They also asked if they should tell others and the answer was you've told enough people, don't tell anyone else. Another question was if our world was coming to an end. The answer was no, not that "they" were aware of. When asked if the man would be contacted again the answer was maybe. When asked if the woman would be contacted the answer was, no, one is enough.

An interesting point to this event was that all these answers were given while the woman was formulating them in her mind and before she could actually verbalise them to and through her partner. During this event, which lasted 30 minutes, the woman described her partner as being very agitated and pale while walking up and down. The communication seemed stronger at times than others and was very abrupt and rushed. The couple were told the communication would end once "they" left the atmosphere. The event ended with the abrupt message "we're going" and then it was over.

Afterwards, the man described himself as worn out, like he had just run a marathon, needing to lie down and having a terrible body odour despite having had a shower just prior to the experience. He described the communication as a feeling coming into his body not his brain and he "couldn't stop his mouth from running off". He has since tried to initiate contact but to no avail.

Unfortunately since the couple live in a very remote area the phone connection kept dropping out constantly during our conversations which left it a bit sketchy but hopefully one of our investigators will meet with the couple face to face soon. The man was asked to call the radio show Sunday 27th Feb, and report this contact experience himself (you can tune in via the net at www.4bc.com.au to listen live between 8 and 9pm Brisbane time.)

The witness is a boat builder for 40 years, is now retired at age 60, does not consider himself to be psychic and both he and his partner are self-proclaimed isolationists preferring to live away from the rest of society. He said did not discount peoples' reports of such things but had always thought he would believe it when he saw it himself. He was not frightened by the experience being more confused than anything.

There are some gaps in this story, which we hope to fill in soon. I'm not sure what to make of all this but we'll keep you informed of future developments.

Report courtesy of UFORQ

Coff's Harbour, NSW - Thursday 10/3/05)

I was fishing on Sapphire Beach (north of Coffs Harbour) on the 10th March at approx. 8pm. It was dark, there was no moon and I was at the northern end of the beach about 300m south from the Moonee Headland. I saw what seemed to be a pair of lights (touching) come into view from behind the headland to my north (over the ocean) at about 20 degrees or less. It looked like a low flying small plane. The object was heading south very slowly. I quickly realized that it was not a typical plane because it was moving too slowly for something so close. Also the lights, which I assumed to be on the wings, were too large and there was no red or green lights, no tail light and no flashing lights. (I have seen lots of planes at night).

The object continued slowly south, but started coming in towards the beach, towards me. I knew that it was not a plane or any kind of craft I could think of. At this point I became very nervous and started backing up the beach towards the dunes. The lights came closer still and I realized that there were four squarish lights all in a horizontal line forming a rounded rectangular object. It seemed like the light was coming from inside the craft like it had four large illuminated windows or panels. I couldn't see an outline of the craft because it was so dark. There seemed to be some random small lights in the centre. The object continued closer and I was really scared. It seemed to pause and started tilting back and forward on its vertical axis slowly and smoothly like it was floating, I was in the dunes and felt an over whelming urge to hide. I just lied down in the grass and felt paralysed with fear. I wanted to run for my trail bike, which was about 50m away but couldn't. I really felt like it knew that I was there and it was observing me. I don't know the exact distance or size, but it could have been as close as 100m and still over the ocean straight out from me. I remember thinking this is really close but looking again and it seemed further away.

The lights were yellow and didn't throw a beam. There was no noise. It started moving south again, still tilting up and down slowly, with the up tilt in the direction of travel. That is, the forward end was tilting up to about 20 degrees and back to zero degrees. It moved south faster while I crawled into some denser vegetation (I wasn't game to move while it was stationery) and made a phone call. While I was on the phone it disappeared! I threw my gear together and left. 500m south along the beach there was another fisherman who didn't see a thing - much to my frustration! There was nobody else on this 2.5km stretch of beach. The whole thing lasted between 5 and 10 minutes, I think.

My other encounter was off Boambee beach over the ocean about 3 years ago whilst beach fishing at night, (bad habit) probably 9-10 pm. I spotted a bright light about 3-4 times as bright as a planet moving slowly northward towards Coffs Harbour. It seemed fairly close. No structure, just a bright light this time. It was at about 30 degrees and moving a bit erratically. Up/down side to side whilst still moving north until it was lost behind the headland at the northern end of the beach. There was no one else around. Definitely was not a plane, helicopter or weather balloon (much brighter than a weather balloon light and not rising). I'll try and send a map of this area as well. I had a look at your website and found a few references to Coffs Harbour and Sawtell (just south).

Subject: Sightings and subsequent army activity - Thurs 24 Mar 2005

"In the winter of 2003 my daughter and I were driving home to Kenilworth along the Kenilworth-Eumundi Road at about 8.45 p.m. My daughter, then 9 years old, cried out for me to look out of the front passenger window, and I leaned down to see what she was pointing at. A bright, fluorescent green ring of light was hurtling toward one of the nearby hills. I slowed to a stop and we saw whatever it was appear to hit the far side of the hill, and a massive green glow arced out around the hill and faded quickly. There was absolutely no noise at all.

I proceeded to drive again, and I was more than a bit jumpy as that road is very 'country' with no lighting for motorists whatever. A short way past where I had stopped we noticed a farm house with the lights on and curtains pulled back. We could see people inside, but nobody seemed to be aware of what had just occurred. We were more than glad to arrive home, but it wasn't until the next day that I learned there had also been strange activity virtually in our own back yard the night before. When I related to some friends what my daughter and I had seen, they proceeded to tell me about a similar green light apparently crashing directly behind my house, a couple of kilometres out. The news report allegedly said that the glow from the 'crash' was seen as far as Rockhampton.

All of this was disconcerting enough, when within a day we were inundated with Army personnel, supposedly on manoeuvres. Helicopters with search lights combed the Kenilworth State forest for days. The people I spoke to who had asked soldiers directly why they were in town, were met with cold silence. There was never another word reported on the matter. When I came across your site I felt I should speak up about this sighting, as it has haunted me since the time it happened”

Subject: Want to report sighting of strange being - Thu, 24 Mar 2005 10:04

“My name is....., I am eleven years old and would like to report a strange being on the beach at Burrum Heads. I was walking my 4 year old staffy along the beach of Burrum Heads in 2004. It was very sunny and the tide was out. I was walking about a km along the beach front when I came up to a bunch of Mangroves. There was a farm house near by further up the bank. My dog started to pull so hard on the lead that she almost pulled my arm out of its socket. I growled at her and told her to keep moving for I thought she was being stupid. I looked up and there was an extremely tall being standing about 50m away from me. It was glowing a magnificent red and had 2 long legs going upwards easily 2m and very, very short shoulders about 25cm on top of its legs. It's feet were pitch black hooves (the only thing that didn't glow) and it's head was a large not very thick circle with absolutely no features or expression on it at all.

I was scared stiff for a second then I turned around and ran like I never had before. I now know what my staffy was trying to get away from. I have told no one of this event except my mother. My friend just told me recently that her parent's friend lived at the farm house that the glowing red being was near. She said that her parent's friend one day recently threw a stick for his 2 cattle dogs (one white and one grey) and the stick landed on the beach. They were perfectly fine and ran after it. They both grabbed the stick and belted towards him, dropped it while still running towards him and went mad. The white one ripped at his ankle! He had his shot gun next to him and shot both of the dogs before they killed him and his family. That was in the same place as I had seen the alien so it might be a hot spot at Burrum Heads.

MEXICO: RECENT UFO REPORTS FROM MEXICO CITY

On March 20, 2005, UFO researcher Ana Luisa Cid photographed a spherical object in Mexico State's Tlalnepantla Municipality. Days later, she discovered that the helicopter shown in the image belongs to the police authorities of the state in question and was flying at low altitude to monitor disturbances with area street peddlers. The spherical object became apparent when she downloaded the images to her computer.

On March 22, 2005, according to a report from aviation technician Alfonso Salazar, the Radio Red news station reported that a spherical UFO had been reported as hanging motionless over the vicinity of Tlalnepantla, Mexico State. The news was made known by Jorge Flores, a journalist and reporter for the station in question, and by Guadalupe Juarez, a reporter for Radio Red's nighttime news hour. On March 23, 2005, Alfonso Salazar and Carlos Guzmán (renowned Mexican UFO researcher) were interviewed to issue an opinion on the subject.

On Easter Thursday (03/24/05) Mrs. Malena Mendieta reported to Prof. Cid that she had witnessed strange low-flying lights near her window in the Patera Vallejo neighbourhood to the north of Mexico City. These lights emitted a buzzing sound that impressed her greatly. This sighting took place during early morning hours and she was in the company of her daughter.

On Good Friday (03/25/05) Alfonso Salazar and Salvador Guerrero managed to observe and record a spherical object over eastern Mexico City that suddenly changed speed and trajectory exactly as the Crucifixion was being reenacted in Ixtapalapa.

On March 26, 2005, an aviation technician reported a spherical object emitting white lights in the city's southern region, flying at high altitude from south to north (according to a report by Alfonso Salazar).

Email received from UFOR NSW member Dudley Robb

"Hello All,

Early this morning (05 Apr 05) a lady reporter from 'The Northern Star' local newspaper phoned me for my opinion on what the "approximately 50 manoeuvring lights (looked like bright stars) that travelled back and forth over Lismore, NSW, last night (04 Apr 05) may have been. I replied that if they weren't illuminated garbage bags then they would fit the UFO category. So if anyone hears more details on this sighting please pass it on. The story may appear in 'The Northern Star' newspaper.
